Or... Magic Net
A mesh network built by the Digital Stewards for AMC2014
Welcome to the 16th Annual Allied Media Conference!

This program book presents the more than 200 sessions, meet-ups, activities, and special events of AMC2014 – all entry-points to the universe of media-based organizing. At the AMC, we define “media-based organizing” as the use of media, art, or technology to advance a more just, creative, and collaborative world.

You will find hands-on workshops on everything from data encryption technologies to gender non-conforming fashion, from data visualization to Detroit dance traditions.

You will find strategy sessions and panels that weave new connections between movements for social change, while asking critical questions about how we “move” and what we’re moving towards.
At night you will find some of the best dance parties of your life. Chill time with new friends, or simply getting some rest, are also great options!

If you feel daunted by the task of choosing between 10, or 12, or 16 intriguing sessions all happening at once, you can turn to the “Tracks” and “Ongoing” sections of the program book. These lighted paths of content can help you navigate the wilds of the AMC by pointing you to the sessions or activities that might align best with your interests.

Of course it is always advisable to go oﬀ the path – don’t just stick to the places that seem most comfortable! Seek out the unfamiliar at the AMC and keep an open heart and mind. You will most likely be delighted.

Be sure to travel between practice, theory, and play. Take good care of yourself and others. Enjoy AMC2014!
ALLIED MEDIA
PROJECTS
NETWORK
PRINCIPLES

We are making an honest attempt to solve the most significant problems of our day.

We are building a network of people and organizations that are developing long-term solutions based on the immediate confrontation of our most pressing problems.

Wherever there is a problem, there are already people acting on the problem in some fashion. Understanding those actions is the starting point for developing effective strategies to resolve the problem, so we focus on the solutions, not the problems.

We emphasize our own power and legitimacy.

We presume our power, not our powerlessness.

We spend more time building than attacking.

We focus on strategies rather than issues.

The strongest solutions happen through the process, not in a moment at the end of the process.
The most effective strategies for us are the ones that work in situations of scarce resources and intersecting systems of oppression because those solutions tend to be the most holistic and sustainable.

Place is important. For the AMC, Detroit is important as a source of innovative, collaborative, low-resource solutions. Detroit gives the conference a sense of place, just as each of the conference participants bring their own sense of place with them to the conference.

We encourage people to engage with their whole selves, not just with one part of their identity.

We begin by listening.

Tracks are series of Allied Media Conference sessions connected by a shared theme.

ABUNDANT BODIES MEDIA

In this track we will gather, share and celebrate the wisdom and abundance of our bodies. Abundant/thick/fat bodies are the target of so much hate, policing and negativity, even in our organizing communities. How do we unlearn mainstream ideas of what a body should look like and (re)-learn to celebrate the diversity, resilience, wisdom and beauty of all bodies? This track will explore these questions and create spaces to challenge the ongoing ways mainstream media shames and harms abundant bodies, to name fatphobia in our organizing and activism, and to create media and practical strategies for resistance, healing and community building. We will broaden the conversation around fat activism by centering this track on the voices of Indigenous, Black, people of color, dis/abled, super-sized, trans and queer fat folks. Through workshops, panels and skillshares we will transform mainstream ideas around abundant bodies and create resilient communities, media and art centred around abundant bodies!

Coordinated by Aruna Zehra, It Gets Fatter; Asam Ahmad, It Gets Fatter; Jennifer DePoe, Fat Awesome and Queer

BUILDING BETTER FUTURES THROUGH PLAY

How does play inform our social movements? Exploring how we play, and how we can build games to reflect our hopes and aspirations for the world. Games are a crucial avenue to understanding the systems we inhabit and allow us to envision new, different systems. Through sharing tools and know-how to build and publish independent games, engaging in critical conversation about existing games, and relating game cultures to social justice, we are making games a more accessible medium for players and designers of all ages. Participants will work on their skills, discuss the strengths and limitations of games, and push the boundaries of what they think of as possible through this dynamic medium. Let’s play together!

Coordinated by Cayden Mak, 18millionrising.org; Jonathan Beilin, Liam Liwanag Burke, Sarah Burke, Mohini Dutta, Antidote Games; Ben Norskov

CREATIVE PLACEMAKING / PLACEKEEPING

What is the word for “the opposite of gentrification”? And what is the role of creativity in achieving that thing, for which we have no word? The alignment of philanthropy in recent years around the framework of “creative placemaking” brings new urgency to these questions. Investments in creative placemaking must “keep” and honor the existing creativity and identity of a place, if they are to foster holistic, just development. They must also address what Roberto Bedoya has called “the politics of belonging and dis-belonging,” which determine who has power to make a place their own and who does not. This track will explore the ways that media, art, and technology intersect with community efforts towards creative placemaking and placekeeping. We will build upon conversations that have taken place at previous AMCs in the (No) Blank Slates: Detroit X New Orleans Cultural Exchange Track and expand those conversations to learn from the experiences of other communities.

Coordinated by Roberto Bedoya, Tucson Pima Arts Council; Ryann Holmes, MoCADA/bklyn boihood; Jenny Lee, Allied Media Projects #AMC2014 #Placekeeping

I ♥ PRINT MEDIA

This track is for media rabble-rousers committed to the role of print media in our increasingly digital world. The track is a mix of hands-on skill-building through workshops and a print lab aimed at building creative ways to sustain print media. Print has a long history of helping to share ideas, build community power and infrastructure, and report on neighborhood news to build solidarity. Print can be passed from one hand to the next regardless of a person’s access to technology or Internet know-how. We envision a place for print that is not separate from digital, but complimentary and collaborative. From video scripts to social media to podcasting – print copy is central to the creation of digital media. Print is not dead, its just ever evolving.

Coordinated by Morrigan Phillips, Beautiful Struggle; Saif Rahman, RESIST; Lydia Pelot-Hobbs, AORTA; Sharmeen Khan, Upping the Ante #AMC2014 #HeartPrint
LIBERATION TECHNOLOGIES FOR WORLD BUILDING & SURVIVAL

The post-apocalypse is here and real, where ancient and varied modes of survival and technology have been erased in the name of Empire and Progress. What do we do when access to memory/the past is standardized? This track explores how people at the margins can remix, rewire, and revive emancipatory technologies such as storytelling, world-building, magic, sci-fi and speculation to envision and conjure narratives of power and joy. Through engagement with tools like portals and time-travel, we will develop strategies to manifest new/ancient narratives into reality. We will envision a world that has happened, is happening, and will happen. We hope that travelers will walk away with the courage to embody the power of fiction and visioning in healing personal and historical trauma and disenfranchisement. We want to create and share multifaceted inclusive networks that emerge our bodies from isolation and oppressive paradigms to keep our souls alive.

Coordinated by Ras Mashramani, Metropolarity; Maggie Eighteen, Metropolarity; KellyAnne Mifflin, StitchPrism; Ash Richards, Space of Imaginary Practice; Petra Floyd, The New Black; R. Phillips, AfroFuturist Affair

MEDIA STRATEGIES FOR TRANSFORMING JUSTICE

How does your community respond to violence? How can we use art, media, and technology to envision and practice a world without prisons and police? The Media Strategies for Transforming Justice track is a dynamic collection of workshops and strategy sessions that explore what transformative justice means and the creative ways we are keeping ourselves and our communities safe and working toward the abolition of prisons and police. We will explore successes and failures of transformative justice efforts to date, share creative skills and practical strategies for embedding transformative justice into our daily actions, our community responses to violence and our culture as a whole. We’ll look at all the ways we create safety, healing and justice--from community databases and bad date lists to zines, social media, cell phone apps, dance, food, crafts, storytelling, radio and video.

Coordinated by Leah Lakshimi Piepzna-Samarasinha, Badass Visionary Healers; Jenna Peters-Golden, Philly Stands Up! Collective/AORTA; Shira Hassan, YWEP; Che J Long, Audre Lorde Project; Chanelle Gallant, Everyday Abolition

RESEARCH JUSTICE

Our communities are experts with first hand experience of oppressions. Our experiences, stories, community knowledge, as well as reports, studies and data, are all legitimate forms of research that can effect change. But is it “Research Justice” or just research? The Research Justice track, in its third year, brings forth stories of struggle, change and liberation with a transformative research agenda. We’ll share skills, theory, and case studies of radical research in the context of social justice movements. Together we’ll build the mission and vision of research justice, and share methods for grassroots research that: tell untold stories that foreground the expertise, knowledge and action of communities most impacted by injustice; challenge dominant narratives; produce evidence of social injustice; and support organizing and movement building.
Finally, we’ll continue to build our network of radical rabble rousing researchers.

Coordinated by Chris Schweidler, Research Action Design; Kat Hartman; Jessica McInchak

RESOURCING AND SUSTAINING OUR MOVEMENTS

How do we sustain our resources in the movement? We will explore creative responses to some of the common fundraising and sustainability challenges we face through a variety of interactive and participatory workshops, skill shares, and peer networking and learning spaces. We will provide a learning space for participants to share ideas, skills, and strategies for sustaining and resourcing our communities, groups, and movements in the spirit of collaboration, solidarity, and abundance (within and outside of nonprofit structures). Participants will walk away with fundraising ideas, strategies, skills, along with new relationships, resources, and connection to a network of other folks who are interested in continuing this dialogue. The track will integrate fundraising and resource organizing strategies for rural and urban communities with an emphasis on grassroots fundraising.

THE SOUND TRACK

Music and sound are powerful communication and organizing tools that have shaped and archived social movements since our earliest ancestors. We will explore how music and sound shapes our perception of each other, how we listen to each other, and how we think about the future. We will investigate soundtracks of our past to understand the potential of music and sound, explore tools that allow us to collaboratively build the soundtracks of our lives and movements, listen to each other to understand the diversity of sound each person carries, and reflect on influences that have shaped sound and music over time. Participants will walk away with insight on the ways in which music and sound influences our lives and communities and how we can use these tools to shape the worlds we want to see.

WATCH THIS! SURVEILLANCE, SECURITY, AND ORGANIZING

Surveillance is nothing new; and neither is creative, resilient resistance to its impacts. “Watch This!” is designed to bridge the gaps between policy, technology, and social justice/human rights communities – all of which are involved in their own, often siloed conversations about surveillance. We aim to locate recent conversations about NSA surveillance in the broader context of social movements, focusing on the experiences of poor people, communities of color, other marginalized groups, and political organizers in these communities. We will explore safety and security from a holistic approach, speak frankly about our strengths, needs, and concerns and do hands-on work in sessions, workshops, and Discotech spaces. Our conversations and engagement will involve not only digital trickery but also analog solutions that have strengthened our communities and our movements throughout history.

Coordinated by Bex Hurwitz, RAD/MIT Center for Civic Media; Emi Kane, AMP/ICU Oakland; Primavera de Filippi, Berkman Center; Seeta Gangadharan, Open Technology Institute; Mallory Knodel, APC

YOUTH MEDIA & MOVEMENTS

Young people are currently transforming our world through movement-building, media-making, research, healing practices, and other activities that create bridges between community organizing efforts. The Youth Media & Movements Track is an invitation to all youth media and youth leadership organizations to explore connections between our work and share tools, skills, and media that we’ve created. We will strategize on how to build powerful intergenerational alliances to solve the deepest problems our communities face, using youth media, creativity, and radical leadership. Participants will walk away with new ideas for what’s possible in their youth organizations and their communities

Future Design Lab
Join the Future Design Lab as we explore alternative visions of the future and begin making them into reality. We will use tools including speculative design, technology, mapping, and data that shows with clarity and elegance how we get from where we are to where we want to be. We will prove that alternative futures are desirable, crucial, and within reach. "What should the future look like?" Join us to answer! Brainstorm. Sketch. Movement // Movement Practice Space
We believe that "embodied awareness" is a critical way of interpreting and shaping our ourselves and our extended environments. The development and practice of embodied awareness requires safe facilitation, open space, and lots of playtime. This practice space will be a blend of technique-based workshops of all kinds; open studio time where people can practice, improvise, and expand on what they learn; collaborative workshops with other AMC tracks; and multidisciplinary performance time. Folks will leave with new connections to their hearts, bones and muscles.

Really Rad Radio/TV Station

RRR/TV will feature an FM and Internet radio broadcast, a live video streaming studio, and ongoing demonstrations and workshops that will teach participants the basics of radio and video production at the conference. We will be producing live programming throughout the weekend and encourage both veterans and folks who are new to radio and TV to come out to the station to be a guest on a show, host a show, and/or be an audience member. Making live media is fun, so join us at the Really Rad Radio/TV station, geek out on cool equipment and lend your voice!

Transformative Arts Practice Space (TAPS)

What is the role of the creative process in movement building? And how can "art objects" (posters, websites, zines, paintings, prints, culture jamming, etc.) move movements? TAPS is a place for exploring the role of art and artists in building an equitable, liberated, and loving society. Play around – no experience necessary to learn new skills! Hone your arts practice through advanced workshops. Reflect through critical dialogues. We will explore arts practices that value collectivity, collaboration, inclusivity, liberation, radical imagination, love, + fun.

NETWORK GATHERINGS /
10:00AM - 5:00PM

Network Gatherings are strategic planning and organizing spaces within the AMC which support year-round collaborations and network cultivation. Please note: some Network Gatherings are invite-only.

Complex Movements’ Art, Science, and Social Movements Cohort

It is time to rethink how we make change. Complex Movements will gather artists, presenters, organizers, and science geeks to explore the relationship between art, community transformation, social movements, and complex sciences through the lens of their performance installation "Beware of the Dandelions." We will discuss the way scientific principles can help build a stronger movement for social justice and create intersectional trans-local strategies. This group will continue to meet virtually and convene at the AMC for the next three years. This network gathering is invite only.

Education for Liberation Network Gathering

The Education for Liberation Network Gathering aims to bring together local leaders from around the country to prepare for the 2015 "Free Minds, Free People" (FMFP) national conference. FMFP, convened by the Education for Liberation Network, brings together teachers, high school and college students, researchers, parents and community-based activists/educators from across the country to build a movement to develop and promote education as a tool for liberation. This network gathering is open to all with a maximum capacity of 80 people.

This network gathering will use media and technology to connect diverse and dispersed trans women of color so that we can build the bridges, networks, and resources necessary to transform our communities. We will create a new international network of Trans Women of Colour, using blogs, social media, video conferencing, Theater of the Oppressed, fashion and wearable electronics to build connections between us. While we have intentionally chosen 'TWOC' for the name of this Network Gathering, it is inclusive of non-binary trans feminine people of colour as well. Invite-only.

Move Up, Fight Back: Midwest LGBTQ Youth of Color Network Gathering

LGBTQ youth of color are moving up and fighting back against injustice everyday. We are taking back our streets and our safety, fighting for education and healthcare, building our own safe spaces, and interjecting our lives into frontline issues where we are often silenced and forgotten. Move Up, Fight Back will lift up the work of LGBTQ youth of color organizers from across the Midwest, and together we will create strategies for strengthening regional and national solidarity. Open to all.

Muslins Making Media, Making Change

Muslins Making Media, Making Change will focus on the media tools we are using in our communities to challenge violence with the hope of inspiring each other, building solidarity, and spearheading future collaborations. Mainstream media often reduces the diverse voices of Muslins. We are are made to be monolithic, silenced, relegated to the margins. Our own communities as well can make us feel isolated, judged, or policed.
This gathering will be an opportunity for anyone that self identifies as Muslim through the spectrum of familial, spiritual, political, cultural, or ancestral connections.

Racial Justice and Surveillance

Surveillance has a purpose – and one that is often rooted in systems of power and control. For decades, surveillance has been used by governments and companies to stifle political speech and shut down our movements. These programs cause entire communities to live in fear. Songwriting and Rewriting for Community Storytelling
Got a popular song that you'd like to rewrite and make your own? In this session, we will explore strategies for recreating our favorite songs to reflect our own unique stories. We will start by learning the basics of song structure and hearing examples of music that has been rewritten to take on a new meaning. We will brainstorm themes that are relevant to our life experience and work in groups to (re)write popular songs in a way that is relevant to us and our communities.

RESEARCH JUSTICE

What is the Future of Design for Social Justice?
Welcome to the Future Design Lab! In this introductory session, we will kick off the weekend with a facilitated discussion about the future of design in our social movements and communities. Where do we want to take design in challenging the status quo, inspiring creative resistance, and envisioning other worlds? We will share ideas, strategies, and projects to expand how we design for social justice. We will use this discussion as a jumping off point to map out our design dreams for the conference and we will wrap by exploring and playing with the tools in the space.

Audio Training: Memory to Mars
If you had a one-way ticket to Mars and were only able to take one memory with you, which one would you choose? Storytelling is a powerful tool to demystify complex issues, represent data, break down assumptions, and build understanding. So, what makes for a strong story that can bring change? Using a futuristic, outer space scenario, we will explore best practices in storytelling, learn what makes for a strong story, and develop a 3-5 minute story that we will store in a digital time capsule.

How to Make Complex Policy Concepts Tangible

Everyone talks about "what's at stake" in policy debates about things like Net Neutrality and communications company mergers, but that talk reflects a DC-centered worldview. In this session the goal is to create a space for us to dive into the legal and technical jargon and to hack it! We will talk a bit about the details – the what and the how of current policy fights – but we will spend the majority of the session re-imagining and creating analogies so that we can all talk about "what's at stake" in a way that resonates with our communities.

Detroit Stories for Place-based Racial Justice
National conversations about racial justice and gentrification too often rely on generalizations that reduce our communities to heroes, villains, and victims. Place-based storytelling can advance more complex narratives of racial justice, by intersecting with issues of economics, gender violence, and other specificities of the places we call home. We will hear from a panel of Detroit storytellers who have been advancing place-based narratives of racial justice in film, print, and social media. Participants will acquire tools for crafting their own powerful stories about their communities.
Keeping Ourselves "HealthySexyCool"

How are young people getting the information we need to take care of our bodies and our well being? Selfies & Surveillance: Where do our Pics Go?
Photographs of our bodies/faces, especially for marginalized people, can assert individuality and community but also expose us to invasions of dignity, privacy, and moments of intimacy. In this session we will explore what we owe each other when we take pictures, and how we want to control our pictures circulation and visibility. We will identify key principles useful for communities, organizations, and technical designs.

Youth-led Participatory Action Research
Have you ever filled out a research survey and wondered, “Where is this information going and who is looking at it?” Too often, traditional survey and research methods can be marginalizing, exclusionary, and plainly hurtful. Participatory Action Research is an alternative framework that seeks to harness the collective power of our voices and give us the legitimate means to question “official” representations of our communities in creative and empowering ways. Hear how Twin Cities youth are using Participatory Action Research to create change in their communities.

How to Rep Your Community When Talking to Media

A community exists when we amplify one another’s voices together. This workshop will explore the challenges and possibilities of doing this when media attention can also pose a direct threat to our communities – those of us who have done transactional sex, are impacted by HIV/AIDS, are struggling with addiction, or experiencing other complex forms of marginalization. Subverting The Algorithm

Algorithms written into the software code permeate nearly every aspect of human existence and replicate the powers of their creators. Using texts about the pervasiveness of algorithms, participants will propose technologies of resistance to organize communities against these forces that inhibit us from determining our own destinies or shaping our own identities, as individuals and in community. We hope to emphasize research and collaboration strategies for envisioning technologies of resistance, creating space for a dialogue about the ways in which the algorithm shapes life.

Narrative Framing: The Impact of State Violence on Families

Prevailing narratives about violence and punishment rely on a clear-cut distinction between victims and offenders. This false binary makes invisible the many families who are affected by both interpersonal and state violence. The policy decisions that stem from these simplistic narratives only increase state violence and fail to provide meaningful justice. What kinds of policies would result from narratives that placed families first? This panel will include families who have reclaimed narratives to shift policies including Kim and DeJuan, the sister and nephew of the late Troy Davis.

BUILDING COMMUNITY

Building Your Individual Donor Program
Want to broaden and deepen your donor base, increase individual giving and engage major donors? In this session we will share the resources, systems, and tools you need to grow a comprehensive individual donor program – from the initial launch, to the cultivation of major donors and monthly sustainers. Participants will walk away with a road map to building a successful grassroots fundraising program that can sustain your work over the long-haul.
Performing Nonprofit Dreams & Disasters
What does life look like after the nonprofit industrial complex? In Peacock Rebellion's powerful performance, come see (and be!) queer and trans performing artists of color explore nightmares and dreams of life beyond the nonprofit industrial complex (NPIC). Come for the performance, stay for the writing and performance workshop to explore your own nonprofit industrial complex dreams and nightmares, and our amazing visions of life beyond the NPIC.

Do it for the Vine! Subversion in Media
There's not a lot of room for radical voices of change or discontent in the contemporary media landscape. We will take a look at the specific narratives used in corporate media to fuel a narrow agenda, and then we will dismantle this narrative. We will learn how to build solid community-based communications strategies that will help you get your message to the public in ways that are creative, fun, and effective. Participants will walk away with new ideas for how to use the media to their advantage.

Research Justice for Workers & Organizers

Learn about how to seize the means of research production to win campaigns and democratize the union. Have you seen the traditional labor movement silo data away from the workers and staff organizers, to the detriment of campaigns and worker empowerment? As the movement continues to face immense challenges to organizing, creative tactics must be used to create more democratic unions run by workers. Come participate in a conversation about how organizers can develop research justice practices that support strategic direct action, help win campaigns, and create true worker power.

Radical Community Care
How do we take care of each other and more marginalized and alienated members of our community? We talk a lot about transformative justice but how does it apply to our community work? Care has a lot of different meanings to different people. Some think of caregivers. Others think of people who need care and often lump together people who are youth, elderly, or have disabilities. How do we create more access and safer spaces for everyone in our communities? This will be a safer space that is centered on intersecting oppressions, survivors, marginalized folks, youth, and families.

Creative Coping after Traumatic Loss

After deaths due to murder or other traumatic events, family and friends have to hear triggering statements; "They are in a better place now"; "Everything happens for a reason." Creative Resistance and Direct Action

Creative, bold visuals and performances make a great center piece for every direct action and unify your group, amplify your message, inspire people to have a personal interaction with your work, and provide a visual story through symbols that clarify the issue. Through popular education exercises and tactical exploration, we will explore how to use art as a campaign and organizing strategy, and how to plan creative actions that make change irresistible.

Winning What We Deserve From Big Telecom
Huge telecommunications companies are knocking down the few rules that protect our speech as they rack up giant profits. As they give our info to the NSA, they also fight bills to extend sick days to poor people, lobby to close public schools, redline communities of color, and slow down our speech online. We have real ways to stop them that we can duplicate in our hometowns – for the first time in this generation – if we start now. Let's strategize together to make Comcast and all big telco pay.

Storysharing for Culture & Policy Shift

Advocacy messaging often relies on talking points and statistics that obscure the lived experiences of those who are most deeply affected by the issues. However, it is possible to shift culture and change policy through the telling of personal stories. SAFETY AT AMC2014
BUILDING COLLECTIVE CARE

SAFETY TEAM: (313) 986-5234
on call daily through the AMC from 10:00AM - midnight

At the AMC, we are committed to building a space free of sexual, physical, and emotional violence in our relationships and interactions. We know that all of us can choose to harm and all of us can harm. We also know that we have the collective power to create a community where violence is not the norm. How we hold ourselves, care for and support each other, and practice community over the four days of the AMC is an essential part of the work we’re doing. We know this is not easy, and that this is a work in progress.

To help support folks in doing this, for the third year in a row the AMC will have a Safety Team. The Safety Team is made up of folks who have experience dealing with sexual assault, intimate violence and crisis. If you or someone you know experiences a situation of harm or abuse, is trying to negotiate sharing space, or is going through a rough time and needs some support and resources, please text or call the Safety Team at the number listed above.

Safety Team is there for folks, but we also want to ask folks to work to maintain a space where we check in about consent when we’re crushing and hooking up with each other. We ask workshop facilitators and everyone to make plans about how we can support folks when we talk about violence and abuse.
HERE ARE SOME LOCAL RESOURCES:

Serenity Services is a toll free crisis line for folks experiencing partner abuse: (877) 855-5948

Common Ground offers free support for folks experiencing crisis: (800) 231-1127

GETTING AROUND

AMC LOCATION

The primary location of AMC2014 is the McGregor Memorial Conference Center on the campus of Wayne State University, and the adjoining Community Arts Building. The address is 495 Ferry Mall, Detroit, MI 48201.

The secondary location is Old Main, also on the campus of Wayne State University, approximately 0.5 miles from McGregor Memorial Conference Center, at 4841 Cass Ave, Detroit, MI 48201.

From Community Arts to Old Main
A shuttle to Old Main will leave from the South Entrance of the Community Arts Building approximately every 5 minutes. It takes approximately 10 minutes to walk/roll from McGregor to Old Main.

From Wayne State to the Bowling Party [Friday, 6/20]
The Bowling Party is at the Garden Bowl in the Majestic Theatre Center, 4120 Woodward Ave.

WALK, ROLL, RIDE A BIKE, or DRIVE: The party is less than one mile from Wayne State. It’s a straight shot south on Woodward.

SHUTTLE: We provide a continuous loop shuttle from The Towers residence hall to the bowling party and back. Call 313-506-3986 to request a pick up.

From Wayne State to the Saturday Music Event at MOCAD [Saturday, 6/21]
The Saturday night music showcase is at the Museum of Contemporary Art in Detroit (MOCAD), 4454 Woodward Ave.
GETTING AROUND

WALK, ROLL, RIDE A BIKE, or DRIVE: The party is one mile from Wayne State. It’s a straight shot south on Woodward. SHUTTLE: We provide a continuous loop shuttle from The Towers residence hall to the MOCAD party and back. Call (313) 506-3986 to request a pick up.

PARKING

Parking with no in-and-out privileges is $6.50 a day in Structure 2, location 0.3 miles from the AMC at McGregor Conference Center. Credit card payments only.

Metered street parking is available near campus.

BOWLING PARTY: There is a fenced-in, guarded lot in the rear of the Majestic.

AMC MUSIC @ MOCAD: There is a guarded lot to the east side of the MOCAD.

Wheelchair Accessibility

There are stairs between the McGregor Conference Center and the Community Arts Auditorium, which means you have to roll around the buildings outside in order to move between McGregor and Community Arts. It takes 5-10 minutes to get from one building to another in a wheelchair. We have a wheelchair accessible van that can provide rides to most off-campus locations. Please inform the registration table if you need a wheelchair accessible ride. The Warren entrance to Old Main is wheelchair accessible.

Call (313) 718-2267 to access the AMC’s wheelchair accessible van.
CABS

You could use the transportation services Uber or Lyft.

These companies offer an app that will route a car to your location. Download the Uber or Lyft apps for both Android and Apple iOS.

The revolution just got bigger.

Southwest Michigan Trans and Allies (SMART) wants to remind the AMC about the importance of creating safe spaces! SMART is a coalition of community groups and allies created to challenge anti-trans bias and to provide support to all trans people and their allies.

We love you all.

Thanks for creating space for us and everyone else in this amazing city.

JOIN SOUTHWESTERN AMERICAN TRANSSPECTIVE

SMART is part of Southwestern American Transspective (SOUTHWESTERN). SOUTHWESTERN is a coalition of local and national groups and allies working to end transphobia. SOUTHWESTERN is the US branch of the International Transgender Council (ITC).

JOIN SOUTHWESTERN AMERICAN TRANSSPECTIVE

You Can Make the AMC A Trans Positive Space!

To make the AMC (and any space) welcoming for everyone, don’t assume anyone’s gender, even if you think it’s obvious! Here’s how:

★ If you don’t know someone’s preferred pronouns, please ask!
If you’re talking about someone before learning their pronouns, use gender-neutral ones (like “they” instead of “he”or “she”) to avoid saying something hurtful.

★ Introduce yourself and others using your preferred pronouns

“My name is Sam, and my pronouns are ‘he and her’.

You can respect trans people by sharing your preferred pronouns without making a joke. Many trans people have to do this constantly, and it’s not always easy!

★ Avoid greeting new people with gendered terms, like “sir” or “ma’am” unless you know the person’s identity.

★ If you make a mistake, don’t panic! Mistakes happen. Just correct yourself and move on.

We interrupt this program for an important public interest message.

If Comcast is allowed to swallow up Time Warner Cable, it will control two-thirds of the nation’s cable customers, and nearly 40 percent of broadband users.

That’s a recipe for disaster.

Please visit HearUsNow.org to Share Your Story about Comcast and Time Warner, and participate in our campaign to oppose the merger.
